

COMMUNISM AND HUNGER:

The Chinese, Kazakh, Ukrainian, and Soviet Famines in Comparative Perspective

September 26–27, 2014

SEPTEMBER 26

The Vivian and David Campbell Conference Facility
Munk School of Global Affairs, University of Toronto
1 Devonshire Place

9:00 am–4:30 pm — Conference Sessions

7:00 pm — Lucien Bianco, How Soviet and Chinese
Communists Dealt with the Peasantry. A Comparison.

SEPTEMBER 27

St. Vladimir Institute, 620 Spadina Avenue

1:00 pm–3:00 pm — Sessions

3:30 pm — Andrea Graziosi,
Stalin and Hunger as a Nation-Destroying Tool

There has been surprisingly little systematic comparison of the Chinese, Kazakh, Ukrainian, and Soviet famines to date. This conference will bring together specialists of these famines to produce a deeper understanding of these phenomena. The presenters, on the basis of their research and knowledge of the rapidly increasing specialized literature, will assess the common features and significant differences and place their findings within the dynamics of the histories of the respective countries.

For more information:
www.holodomor.ca

PRESENTERS:

Lucien Bianco, École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales
Sarah Cameron, University of Maryland
Andrea Graziosi, Italian National Agency for the Evaluation of University and Research
Niccolò Pianciola, Lingnan University, Hong Kong
Ralph Thaxton, Brandeis University
Nicolas Werth, Institut d'histoire du temps présent
Zhou Xun, University of Essex

Register at:
<http://munkschool.utoronto.ca/events/>

Organized by The Holodomor Research and Education Consortium, Canadian Institute of Ukrainian Studies, University of Alberta.
Sponsored by the Petro Jacyk Program for the Study of Ukraine, Centre for European, Russian, and Eurasian Studies (CERES); Dr. David Chu Program in Asia Pacific Studies at the Asian Institute, University of Toronto; The Ukrainian Canadian Research and Documentation Centre; St. Vladimir Institute; and the Canadian Foundation for Ukrainian Studies.